THE CORCORAN GALLERY OF ART AND COLLEGE OF ART + DESIGN
 PRESENT 2011 PRINT PORTFOLIO

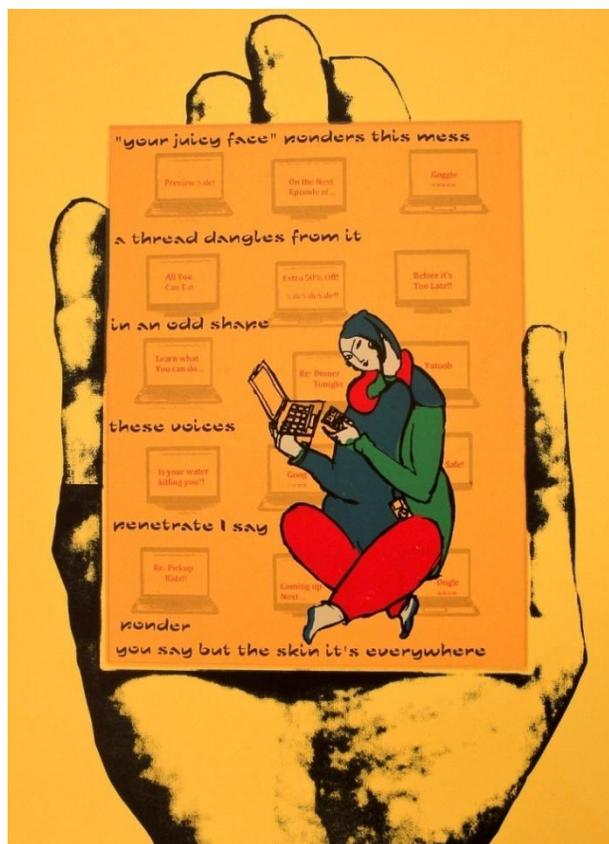

WASHINGTON, D.C. – This spring, the Printmaking Department at the Corcoran College of Art + Design will debut its 26th annual Printmaking Portfolio at the urban art space 87FLORIDA. For more than a quarter century, the Corcoran’s print portfolio exhibition has showcased the artistic vision and printmaking skills of Corcoran’s faculty and students in the Master of Arts, Bachelor of Fine Arts, and Continuing Education programs.

This year’s theme, Distracted Living, is brought to life through a collaborative effort between Corcoran artists and poets in the D.C. community and beyond. Working together, the creative partners interpret Distracted Living both visually and through the written word. The resulting prints will embody a shared creative vision realized through a wide range of traditional and experimental printmaking techniques, including screenprint, lithograph, etching, letterpress, relief, and digital.

“This year’s theme, Distracted Living, feels appropriate due to the current social and economical conditions we either embrace or endure in the 21st century,” said Elizabeth Klimek, portfolio coordinator at the Corcoran College of Art + Design. “The collaboration with local poets has added a new voice to each work, developing a unique discourse.”

The exhibition will be on view at 87FLORIDA in Washington, D.C. from April 1–22, 2011. The public is invited to attend an opening reception with the artists on April 1 from 6 to 9 p.m. and a literary reading by Corcoran faculty, students, and local poets on Friday, April 22 from 7 to 9 p.m. at 87FLORIDA.

The exhibition will be open to the public on Saturdays from 10 a.m.–4 p.m. 87FLORIDA is located at 87 Florida Ave., NW Washington, D.C. 20001.

ABOUT THE PRINT PORTFOLIO

The annual Print Portfolio offers positive opportunities for Corcoran student artists. The exhibition at 87FLORIDA is an opportunity for the art community and collectors to view student work in a professional setting. Portfolios from previous years have been purchased for private and public collections including the Library of Congress and the Corcoran Gallery of Art. Organized for many years by printmaking coordinator Georgia Deal, this year's portfolio project has been coordinated by Elizabeth Klimek, lithography instructor at the Corcoran. For more than 25 years the annual print portfolio has showcased the work of MA, BFA, and Continuing Education students and their instructors. This year, 31 students and faculty have been involved in every aspect of the production of the portfolio – from choosing a theme, editing the prints, designing and producing the title sheet, portfolio case and invitation, planning the reception, assisting the gallery with hanging the show, and manning the gallery for public viewing.

Both the April 1 reception and April 22 literary reading provide an opportunity for visitors to meet the student and faculty artists and to learn about the prints from the artists themselves—opening a window into their creative processes. For more information, please visit www.corcoran.edu.
